MEMORIES OF DOWNTOWN NOVEMBER 15TH AT MEADOW LAKES

Dr. Harold C. "Skip" Cox Jr. will host a nostalgic program on memories of downtown Hightstown at the next general meeting to be held Tuesday, November 15th at 7:30 PM at the meeting room in the Meadow Lakes retirement facility on Etra Road. So come out for a night about the people, places, and stores of the Hightstown of yesteryear as recalled by some of the locals who knew them best. The general public is invited and refreshments will be served. [NOTE: Please observe the date change. This program was announced in the last newsletter to be held on Wednesday, November 16th, but scheduling problems forced the change.] ■

ETRA IS FOCUS OF TOWNSHIP HISTORIC PRESERVATION COMMISSION

As part of the ongoing work of the East Windsor Township Historic Preservation Commission to identify for the township's Master Plan the historic landmarks and districts of the Township, the Commission has recently been focusing its attention on the village of Etra, along Etra Road in the southeastern part of the township.

The following brief history of Etra is taken from the Commission's "Significance Report on the Etra Historic District" and is reprinted with permission. The map of the Commission's proposed district is also included.

The Etra Historic District meets the provisions of East Windsor Township Ordinances Chapter 2-28 as a geographically definable, small rural area, possessing significant linkage, continuity, sites, buildings, structures, and objects which when viewed collectively represent a significant period in the development of East Windsor Township and because of their distinctive character can readily be viewed as an area and neighborhood distinct from surrounding portions of the Township.

Etra, first known as "Scrabbletown" and later as "Milford," occupies the northern part of the William Hutchinson tract purchased in 1740. Both Cedarville Road and Milford Road were foreshadowed in 1749 when a public road was surveyed that anticipated the later creation of those two roads. In 1773, John

HISTORIC SITES IN HIGHTSTOWN AND EAST WINDSOR

The Mount-Ely-Hancock House 1800, Circa 1860, 1 Hidden Springs Lane East Windsor

This is a two-story, five-bay, double-pile, frame house, clapboarded, with a gable roof and one interior chimney. It consists of a three-bay, side-hall, Federal era house built in the year 1800, and a two-bay addition built circa 1860. Until 1981, when it was moved to its present location, this house stood on its original site along the northerly side of Disbrow Hill Road. The original house on that site was a small, 1 + 1/2-story, cellarless, frame house built before 1777, to which the Federal era, side-hall house was added in 1800. The pre-1777 section, however, was demolished when the circa 1860 addition was constructed, though physical evidence of it survived. On 5/1/1771, Thomas Mount of Upper Freehold Township, Monmouth County purchased 308-acres of land from John Hutchinson, who had obtained the land which had been part of his father William Hutchinson's purchase of more than 1,000 acres in 1740. Mount never settled on this land but instead remained at his homestead in Upper Freehold Township. He made his Last Will and Testament there on 4/17/1777, days before he died, in which he gave to two sons, Richard and Hezekiah Mount, each one-half of his lands on the southwest side of Rocky Brook, where each "now lives." Richard (1741-1825) and Hezekiah (1750-1807), and their families, settled on this land and had a small house built on the original site of the present house before 1777. Hezekiah, the younger brother, probably never improved his half of the land, for on 9/3/1777 he sold his interest to his brother Richard. Richard married Lydia Dey (1748-1804). He farmed this land through the Revolutionary War and was taxed for the livestock (horses, cattle, and hogs) that he raised to help support his evidently large family. The 1784 census indicated that his household included thirteen white members and three black slaves.

On 5/1/1795, Richard and Lydia Mount, who by then had moved back to Upper Freehold Township, sold to their son-in-law and daughter, Samuel and Ann Ely, also of Upper Freehold Township, this farm, "being the place where said Richard lately dwelled." Samuel (1771-1840) and Ann (1770-1838) Ely farmed this land and kept the following livestock and sundries: a wagon, a covered wagon, a dog, and as many as four horses and seventeen head of cattle.

On 3/28/1800, Samuel and Ann sold off 10.81 acres of this farm "which is now covered with the water of the Mill Pond of the said Daniel Stout." This pond was what is now called Etra Lake. Later that same year Samuel and Ann had an addition built onto the original house. The timing suggests that they used the proceeds from selling their part of the mill pond to finance their house's enlargement.

The evidence that the main block of the present house was built during the jubilee year is an inscription — "1800" carved into the sill as the house was being framed. This carving was covered over during the original sheathing of the house, leaving no opportunity for it to have been made at a later date. It was exposed during the rehabilitation work accompanying the move in 1981. The style of the house with its internal chimney, a popular feature during the early Federal period, also supports a date of 1800.

It was a fine house for the time, and Samuel lived there for the next four decades. He died on 12/18/1840, leaving to his youngest son, Abijah, "all my homestead farm whereon I now live." Abijah Ely (1810-1855) married Rebecca Mount on 1/11/1832, but they did not have any children. On 2/9/1843, they sold 24.11 acres of this farm to William R. Hutchinson, a great-grandson of the William Hutchinson of 1740. Abijah's life was cut short, for he died at the age of 44 on 2/13/1855. The following obituary appeared in the New Jersey State Gazette on 2/20/1855: "Mr. Abijah Ely, a wealthy and respectable farmer of Hightstown, in this county, died last

BLACK HISTORY ARTICLES NEEDED

Articles are needed about African-American history in the Hightstown East Windsor community. Special emphasis on black history is being considered for the January/February issue, to coincide with Black History Month, which is observed each year in February. Articles not used in that issue may run in subsequent issues of the newsletter. Researchers of other aspects of local history who wish to publish articles in the newsletter may contact Robert Craig, at (609) 586-4702.

Mystery!

A GERMAN DOCTOR IN HIGHTSTOWN??

by Robert Craig

In the early years of our Republic, when Hightstown was a stagecoach stop on the route between Burlington and Perth Amboy, and long before it had its own post office, an obscure gentleman apparently sojourned here for an indefinite time.

On December 6, 1784, there appeared a list in the New Jersey Gazette (our state's first newspaper) of letters left in the post office at Trenton. Those were long before the days when the post office delivered mail; if you were expecting letters you went to the post office to pick them up. Among the entries was the following:

"Mr. F.C. Folke, Haight's Town"

No other record of such a person in Hightstown has been found. He owned no property here, and he was not mentioned in the lists of taxpayers that have survived.

A little over two years later, on February 22, 1787, the Princeton

Packet (Princeton's first newspaper) published the following note:

"On the 9th inst., F. C. Focke, late from Cleves in the Prussian Netherlands, was examined in physic and surgery by Dr. John Beatty and Dr. Nicholas Belleville, and giving satisfactory proof of his knowledge was licensed to practice."

Were Folke and Focke the same man? The term "late" was quite elastic in the 18th century; but could Focke still have been "late of Cleves" if he were in Hightstown in 1784? If so, when did he arrive in town and how long did he stay? What brought him from Germany, and what led him to Hightstown? And who was he? An ex-Hessian who decided to stay in America? Did he practice medicine in Hightstown? Or elsewhere in New Jersey? He must have had an interesting life history, but as of this writing, nothing further about him is known. He may have been one of the hundreds of young men who came through our community after the Revolution, many of whom left little record that they were ever here. ■

NOTES FROM THE BUSINESS MEETINGS

As part of an ongoing effort to improve the organization and operations of the Society, a temporary committee has been appointed by President Edgar Thomas to propose changes to the number and functions of the Society's permanent committees.

A recent inspection of the old furnace at Ely House has shown that a new one is needed. Authorization to buy a new furnace was voted at the October business meeting.

Another small grant has been awarded to the Society by the New Jersey Council for the Humanities. This latest grant, nearly $2800, will be used to inventory archival records held by long-time local institutions and businesses. Robert Craig will be the project director for this grant. ■

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dr. Edgar C. Thomas

This is a most exciting year of programs, progress and plans for the Society.

We have just presented another very successful World War II panel and have just completed an outstanding tour of four historical Hightstown-East Windsor homes. Great programs lie ahead! Please place the Precious Memories program on November 15th and the December 11th Christmas Tea on your personal calendar. Remember, you are most welcome at the business meetings held on the first Monday of each month.

Our Christmas Card will be offered again this year with William Craig as chair-person of this activity. This is a wonderfully cordial way to send your holiday greetings to all of your Society friends. Please contact Mr. Craig (448-2965) to add your name to this cheery holiday message.

The freight station plans developed by Lee Stults will shortly be on display in architect's model form in local banks and businesses. It is a beautiful, creative plan for joining the Freight Station and Ely House in a most attractive and functional manner. When complete we will all be justly proud of this fine addition to our Society and community.

Please tell your friends and neighbors about the Historical Society, its programs, and its ongoing contributions to our community. Urge them to become members and to participate in our informative and interesting programs.

The end of 1994 is rapidly approaching and I urge you to consider the Society in your year-end giving. We have opportunities for an outreach to our citizens, the realization of the Freight Station restoration, and the work needed to maintain and improve Ely House. With your support the rich history of our community will be the gift we give to future generations of Hightstown-East Windsor citizens. Happy Holidays! ■

THE MOUNT-ELY-HANCOCK HOUSE

week of lock-jaw, caused by the bite of a dog."

Just six weeks later, his widow Rebecca sold the farm out of the family, to William W. Conover of Monmouth County, who held it for only a year. On 8/27/1855, William W. and Angeline, his wife, sold 4.52 acres of this farm to Vincent Bodine. William and Angeline of East Windsor Township, sold the farmhouse and 87.58 acres to Elijah Hancock of Monroe Township, Middlesex County on 12/31/1855. They sold the remaining 189.35-acres to George W. Fielder and Abijah C. Mount of New York City on 3/29/1856.

About 1860, Elijah Hancock and Lydia Ann, his wife, enlarged the home to its present dimensions. They had the small, pre-1777 section taken down to its foundation and they had an addition built onto the main block. Some of the flooring from the old house was evidently reused in the addition. The Hancocks called their farm "Locust Retreat," apparently planting locust trees near the house.

Still, their tenure was brief, for they sold the farm to William R. Norton of East Windsor Township on 4/1/1869. Three years later, on 2/19/1872, Norton and his wife Mary E. (Taylor) sold the farm house and 50-acres to William W. Taylor of East Windsor Township. The Nortons sold the remaining farm land to Schuyler Richardson of East Windsor Township on the same day. By 1882, Taylor and his wife had moved to Newark, NJ; on April 5th that year they sold the farmhouse and its 50 acres to Ella J. Pullen of East Windsor Township. Pullen would own the house for a quarter-century.

That era ended and a new one began on 3/2/1908, when Ella J. Wilson (formerly Pullen) and James S. Wilson, her husband, of Middletown in Monmouth County, sold the farm to Abraham Abromowitz of New York City. Abromowitz was one of the first European immigrants to buy an East Windsor farm, ushering in a trend that would bring several German-American and eastern-European families into the local farming scene.

Courtenay C. and Victoria A.F. Nairn of New York City purchased the farm on 7/3/1911 from Abromowitz, who had moved to Millstone Township. On 12/7/1912, the Nairns sold the farm to W. Parkinson Chase of Holmdel, Monmouth County, with the condition that the Nairns have the right to reside on the farm until 3/1/1913 and reserving all the winter crops in the ground including the rye. Chase and his wife Emma evidently held the farm as a rental property, for on 5/13/1915, they sold it to Joseph McGuckin and Ella, his wife, another New York City couple. The McGuckins relocated to the property, but their ownership, too, was brief. They sold to Richard P. and Catherine M. Kiel of Hightstown on 6/19/1922. The Kiefs remained in Hightstown, evidently holding the farm as a rental property. The long ownership of the farm by the Estenes family, which still continues, began in 1926. Stephen Estenes and his wife Anna, of Hightstown, bought from the Kiefs on 10/30/1926. On 1/10/1953, Stephen and Anna sold a house lot to their son and daughter-in-law Henry A. Estenes and Beatrice, his wife. On 8/14/1956, Stephen and Anna sold a house lot to their son and daughter-in-law Albert F. Estenes and Eleanor T., his wife. Stephen, a retired farmer, died on 4/10/1974 leaving the farmhouse and remaining farm land to his widow, Anna. On 5/12/1978, Anna sold all but 5.84 acres of the farmland to East Windsor Township. This land was to become part of the Etra Lake Park. Michael Estenes, single, purchased this 5.84 acres, which included the farmhouse, from Anna on 6/5/1978. The Estenes family had planned to tear down the farmhouse once Anna moved out. Instead, however, they offered it to East Windsor Township on the condition that it be moved. In June 1980 the Township decided against this idea due to the high cost of restoration. But Michael A. Pane and his wife Frances saved this farmhouse by moving it to its present location on 9/7/1981. The lot on which the house stands was part of a major subdivision of a 20-acre tract approved by the East Windsor Township Zoning Board on 2/19/1981. Eight lots and Hidden Springs Lane were created. Michael and Frances moved into the house about June or July of 1982. Since then they have been slowly restoring the house and have recently added a formal garden and fountain in the rear. ■

ETRA IS FOCUS OF HISTORIC COMMISSION

Cosman, a local miller, completed a gristmill on the east side of Rocky Brook, the need to impound water for which resulted in the creation of Etra Lake. A number of small lots were gradually sold by the Hutchinson family in what has become the village area. Etra Road was established the same year to give access to the mill to local farmers, including those across the boundary in Monmouth County, and to furnish access from the mill to Old York Road. Cedarville Road was re-established along its present alignment in 1785, and Milford Road was established about the same time. About 1790, Joseph Hutchinson had a Methodist meetinghouse built and a lot set aside for a meetinghouse and graveyard, which is the present Etra Cemetery. The meetinghouse and cemetery were important places to the growing number of Methodists in the area toward the close of the eighteenth and early decades of the nineteenth centuries. Francis Asbury, the "Father of American Methodism," preached in the meetinghouse here at least once, and visited several times. The meetinghouse was closed, however, after the congregation voted to move to Hightstown in 1835, where it is today the First United Methodist Church of Hightstown.

The village of Milford continued to grow slowly throughout the nineteenth century. The Applegate house was built at the west end of the village about 1823. In 1859, efforts were made to improve the condition of Etra Road when the Hightstown and Perrineville Turnpike Company was incorporated. Etra gained its own store in 1833, and in 1890 was given a post office. For purposes of its postal identity, however, the name "Milford" was being confused for any of several other Milfords in New Jersey. As a result, the name "Etra" was created. An early acronym, it comes from the initials of the most prominent resident, Edward Taylor Riggs

Applegate, a two-term New Jersey Assemblyman and Judge of the Mercer County Court of Common Pleas who was raised in the Applegate house.

In 1915, the Township lost its first municipal hall when the land on which it stood became part of an area that was annexed to the Borough of Hightstown. Later that year, the Township built a small, one-room municipal hall in the village along the south side of Etra Road. This was the most sensible location at that time, since Etra was the only significant population in the Township.

Because its growth during the twentieth century has been small, Etra still retains the general appearance it achieved prior to 1990. Many of the buildings have been essentially unchanged from that period. ■

MORE ABOUT WOODEN WATER PIPES

In the May-June 1994 issue of this Newsletter it was reported that the Hightstown Borough Public Works Department, while excavating in Main Street in the summer of 1993 uncovered a piece of wooden pipe left over from an early water delivery system. Such a system was authorized in 1817 to allow James Cook to run pipes to his tavern on Main Street. Recently, Borough Historian Clark Hutchinson has found among his own papers a xerox copy of a lease executed on March 3, 1821 which sheds more light on the nature of the water system and gives further confirmation that wooden pipes were used. The document states:

This Indenture made ... Between Redford Job of the Township of East Windsor ... of the one part and James Cook of the same place of the other part, Witnefseth That the said Redford Job for and in Consideration of the sum of one Dollar ... by the said James Cook and of the further yearly sum of Six Cents to be paid by the said James Cook on the first day of April in each Succeeding year of the Term of this Indenture ... by these presents do Lease Bargain and rent unto the said James Cook his heirs and afsigns, for and during the Term of Ninety nine years, The full Liberty and Priviledge to Convey the water and Lees from his stills now Standing in Hightstown ... through his land in trunks or logs to the mill race The said Cook being at the Whole of the expence of the same .... In Witnefs whereof The Parties to these presents have Set their hands & Seals the date above mentioned.

Sealed & delivered Redford Job (seal) in the Presence of:

James Cook (seal)

John Howell

John Dook

[Note: The "stills" of James Cook were located approximately behind the present-day Great American Saloon & Eatery. The "mill race" of Redford Job was probably the one for his saw mill which was located on the south side of the present-day dam at Peddie Lake on Main Street.]

LUTHER HAS RETURNED

by Richard S. Hutchinson

In the May-June newsletter, an article entitled "Luther Has Gone" told the story of a Hightstown Gazette employee named Martin Luther Groves, who left the area and headed "West." With curiosity getting the better of me, I had to know more about Luther. I learned what follows through the use of census records, a local newspaper, and gravestone information.

Luther was born about 1845 in New Jersey to Hugh R. and Susan Groves. His father, born in New Jersey on August 12, 1805, was a harness maker. The family is not found in East Windsor Township in 1830, but was here in 1840, with Hugh, about 34 years old, with a wife and five children: 2 boys under 5, one boy between 5 and 10, one girl between 5 and 10, and one girl between 10 and 15. When the 1850 census was taken, only two children were living with Hugh and Susan: John, aged 10, and Luther, aged 7. Although Hugh died in 1863, for some reason he was no longer living in this area or with the family in 1860. His wife Susan was listed in that census as a head of household, and carrying on the running of a boarding house in the Borough of Hightstown. Living with her were two sons who were printers: John, now aged 18, and Luther, aged 16. In 1870, Susan, aged 60, was still running a boarding house with 9 boarders, which included her son, 'M.Luther Groves,' aged 23, listed as a printer.

Luther's father died December 29, 1863, and his mother, Susan, died March 2, 1871. Although she is buried next to her husband, "Auntie Susan," as she was known in Hightstown, had apparently been recently married, being her gravestone indicates she was the wife of Abraham Gulick. With both his parents and his wife, Sarah E. (Ashton) Groves (1848-1872) deceased, Luther moved in with a brother-in-law, S.H. Miller, as his sisters and brothers lived far from the area. Finally, in 1876, reportedly led by "inducements held by relatives" [see the May-June issue], Luther left the area and headed "west." Whether Luther ever made it to the west is not known. What is known is that he returned to Hightstown six years later, having died of consumption on April 7, 1882, aged 37, at the home of his sister in Greenpoint, Long Island. He was buried in the Cedar Hill Cemetery next to his parents, a sister Hannah, and his young wife. He was survived by brothers James H., Charles L., and William, and by sisters Mrs. Mary J. Shean of Long Island, and Elizabeth, of California. Although his brother John was apparently deceased at the time of his death, there are no other Groves buried in Cedar Hill.

Luther, in addition to working as a printer for several papers in Hightstown, was a fireman on the Amboy division for a number of years, and he served his country as a soldier in the Civil War. The gravestones of this family, like so many others in Cedar Hill, have all been toppled and the plot is in deplorable condition. A not so fitting tribute to this Hightstonian, printer, fireman, soldier, and veteran. ■

Genealogy

CHARLES WINTERS, A.K.A. "CHARLES H. WOOD"

by Richard Hutchinson

When you are working on the genealogy of your family, your research can take you down roads with many twists and turns. Occasionally there are times when the person you are researching simply "disappears." Aside from the logical explanations of everyday life, there is one other explanation that shouldn't be ignored for the unexplained disappearance. And that explanation is that the subject simply took another name. I have encountered several instances of males in the 1800s changing their name for varied reasons: family feud, entering Civil War service underage, running from a past, etc. Below is such an example of an individual from this area of New Jersey who changed his name. This information was found hidden in a letter written to his friends from Fort Stanton, New Mexico, on 1 Feb 1887.

"Dear Friends, I will now take and write to you a few lines, to let you know that i am yet alive, and doing well. I joint the Army in January 86 and had a good fight with Geronimo and his Indians. I also had two hard fights, where I came very near getting killed, but I got true alright. I was made Corporal when I first enlisted, but have not got high enough to be in Charge of Troop D, 6th U.S. Cavalry and it requires a good man for to get that office and that is more than i expected. Charley White from Cranbury come out with me and got in the same Troop with me, and I sent him with twenty more men out on a Scout after Indians and Charley was lucky enough to be shot down by Indians the first day, and only three of my men returned. I was very sorry but it could not be help. The Territory of New Mexico is a very nice place never no Winters and lots of Gold and Silver Mines all around but for all that it is a disagreeable place on account of so many Indians. I like it first rate and I think as soon as my five years are up i will go bak to Old New Jersey but not to stay. My name is Charley Winters no more since I shot that man at Jefferson Barracks when he tried to get away from me. My Captain at time told me to take the name of his son who died and so my name since then is Charles H. Wood. I will now close and hope that you will soon write and let me know how you are getting along. Give my best regards to all and to yourself and oblige. Charlie Winters. My address is Charles H. Wood, Troop D, 6th Cavalry, Fort Stanton, New Mexico.

So, look for your ancestor's old letters and documents that may be sitting forgotten in your family's attics. They may enable you to get safely "back on the road" in your research. ■

The Holiday Greeting Card

DETACH ALONG THIS LINE

Each year at this time, the Society sponsors a Holiday Greeting Card, which is one of the ways we hope to spread a little good cheer during the season of Christmas and Hannukah. At the same time, both to cover our costs and to raise a small but very needed revenue for the Society, we ask our subscribers to contribute a small amount for their names to be inscribed on the card. This year, for the first time in many years, the Society did not sponsor a doll show fund raiser, so that monies received for the Greeting Card will be especially important in helping to meet regular expenses. To have your name(s) added to the card, please fill out the form.

Please contribute $12 for an individual name and $15 for a family. Checks may be made payable to H.E.W.H.S.
